

INDIAN DANCING was the big highlight of Saturday evening. Everyone met over at the Island to be kept fascinated by the wonders Scott Hill did with his class. In one week Scott had Gary Brender from Wayne, Mich., Carolyn and Cooper Wester from Frankford, Ky., Bo Beall from Martinsburg, W. Va., Jeff Shirley from Inwood, W. Va., Hugh Roth from Pittsburgh, Pa., Beau Holiday from Middletown, Ohio, James Ziegler from Shaker Heights, Ohio, and Rand Hanna from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. doing five dances. The first was the Sun Dance, next the Wolf Dance. Beau Holiday did a beautiful solo in the Lone Hunter Dance. Then was the Chippewa War Dance, and the big finale was Big Small Little Small. Congratulations Scott and his crew for a job well done!!!

LAST SUNDAY afternoon, sixteen energetic campers hiked eight long miles to visit Camp Alleghany. The crew caught frogs, a turtle, and a snake for our fish pond. Duane Petty, Scott Hill, and Dick Staten led the boys over Goat Mt. to I-64, and over another Mt. reaching their destination. The happy but exhausted campers returned to camp a little late for dinner with a big appetite, but there was food for them in the dining hall.

PROBABLY the most exciting event of the 1st term was the eventful 4th of July. In the afternoon the tribes met behind the tennis courts. The Miamis and the Delawares in black versus the Shawnees and Senecas painted in red. The peace lance was broken and everyone went to the island for the Big Flour Battle, called the Battle of Forest Isle. Little bags of flour were thrown at the opposers. When one was hit with flour he was a prisoner. The Miamis and Delawares won the battle by capturing 68 Shawnees and Senecas. The Shawnees and Senecas caught 45 prisoners. Everyone returned to camp to take a shower and clean up for General Swim and the Victory Picnic.

A FISHING contest was held last week and it showed some promising fishermen. For the Warriors, Stuart Wester from Frankford, Ky., caught the biggest and most fish. Jeff Shirley caught the biggest fish for the Pioneers. Nick Nicholas won for catching the most fish for the pathfinders. In the Explorer division, Jim Wiltman caught the most and the biggest fish.

ALEX BURKE from Charleston, W. Va., and Bucky Buck from Lewisburg, W. Va., are said to be experts at tooling leather. Maybe some of our other boys and girls would like to try their hand at it too! If so, see Mrs. Scarborough, the craft instructor. Anyone can be good at crafts, even Mrs. Eugene McClung, Mrs. Buck, and Mrs. Rick McClung have finished works.

Mrs. Scarborough announces that there will be a craft exhibit Sunday probably in the headquarters building. Everyone in crafts will have at least one project to display. These include baskets, aluminum trays, decopague plaques, macrame and swede belts, and different kinds of leather crafts. Everyone interested stop by and see these works of art! Then maybe you'll enjoy joining crafts.

THE NATURE class has really been learning alot from Mr. Buck. They set box traps on the island, learn to tie and make artificial flys, and enjoy the outdoors. The class has caught opossums and ground squirrels. Next week they plan to go to Virginia on a fishing trip and use the things they have made. Alex Burke and Syd Johnson caught a black racer and a banded water snake on the float trip from Anthon's Creek. They can be found in the fishing pond and in a locked cage.

HAVE YOU been listening to the camp radio lately? If so, you have heard some of our famous radio announcers. Forty campers have been trained by Kent Hoffman, director of the radio. There are five classes each day. Glenn Walsh a CIT from Glenshaw, Pa., is the manager. Andy McCorkle from Charleston, W. Va., and Bob Perkins from Columbus, Ohio are assistant managers. The radio starts at 9:30 a.m. and continues until 9:45 p.m. stopping only for lunch and dinner. This carrier current transmits through power lines to radios near by with the frequency of 640 kilocycles under Part 15 of rules and regulations of the Federal Communications System. It takes two to three persons to operate this carrier current because of the two turntables, two tape recorders, the control board, and news and air monitors. These guys have really done a terrific job! So, Listen to

THE WARRIORS had a Worm Hunt! The winners were the Delawares, who caught 291. The Miamis were next with 152, the Shawnees with 50 and Senecas with 1. Contributing to the Delawares were Hugh Roth, David Moore, Gary Brender, Cooper Wester, Bob Bodnar, Walter Carper.
